Lake Rotoiti School News

Tena koutou,

On Wednesday we completed our annual Matariki activities. The children had prepared some lanterns earlier in the term during art lessons. Tracy and her team at DOC took these and placed them around the Honeydew walk by the lake. They did an outstanding job creating grottos and distinctive spots for the children and their parents to find the special work.

Three quarters of the way around we stopped to listen for kiwis. The kiwis must still have been asleep and hiding from the drizzle. Or was it the sound of crunching feet and happy voices?

On behalf of the children and parents of Lake Rotoiti School I'd like to thank Tracy and her team for creating another great memory for our children and their families.

Our senior children are currently learning about maps and contour lines. As part of this we walked up Black Hill, stopping every time we thought we had achieved 20m of elevation. The children were pretty good estimators! At the top we learnt about Trig points and how to find your place on a map using spot heights.

The new fence at the front of the school is receiving very complimentary comments. A huge thank you to Wattie who built it.

The Visitor Assets team has been working on improving the Peninsula Nature Walk. They have given it a good hair cut which has opened-up the track making it possible for two people to walk side-by-side along the entire length of the track. This week will see work continue with staff improving the muddier sections removing the unsightly culvert and bridge and improving drainage.

Welcome to the Nelson Lakes National Park

Enjoy a day at a clear lake surrounded by rugged mountains. Play on the lake edge, or stroll through beech trees with their glistening honeydew and abundant bird and plant life.

Highlights

- Listen to native birds protected in a 'mainland island' - what makes this an island on land?
- Taste honeydew straight from beech trees - does it taste like honey?
- Picnic by the lake or have fun in the water - can you spot any eels under the jetty?

Get ready

Look on the other side of this flyer for the Nelson Lakes map and check out what you can do.

Go and explore

Look out for the Guardian Post in the forest. On it you'll find a special code word - write it down.

Claim your reward

Go to www.kiwiguardians.co.nz and tell us the Nelson Lakes National Park code word to receive a Kiwi Guardians certificate and medal in the mail for this adventure.

Put the medal on your back pack or pencil case to show everyone the adventure you've had.

Collect them all

Each Kiwi Guardians place has a different medal - see how many you can collect.
